"Warm milk from the cow and G. O. Taylor Whiskey saved my life more than 20 years ago." This was the statement made in our office within a few months by a resident of that part of Boston called the Brighton district. Inquiring into the reason for the statement, we learned that the person who gave the information was 70 years of age, and that at 50 he was said to have that dread disease, consumption. Warm new milk and Whiskey was recommended, and knowing his cow, and believing in our representations that G. O. Taylor Whiskies were pure, he found within a very brief period of time that what seemed a simple remedy was really a sovereign one. A few months' use of what cannot be set down as a medicine effected a radical cure.

CORNELL DRAWS THE OUTSIDE COURSE

Senators Twice Defeated by the Colonels.

CURRENT SPORTING NOTES

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.-If the day had been made for the occasion it could not have been more favorable for the fourcared race between crews of Cornell University and the University of Pennsylvania and the race of the eight-oared freshmen crews of Columbia, Cornell and Pennsylvania, which are scheduled to be rowed at 5 and 6 o'clock p. m., respectively, both for two miles.

Clear skies, still water, and yet just the suspicion of a breeze to temper the brightly shining sun, greeted the college men when they arose this morning, and there was every indication that it would last. The trains arriving during the forenoon brought a good many people, especially college men, but the indications are that the attendance today will not be large, the greater crowd being expected for the university race tomorrow, in which Wisconsin will make a fourth contestant. The interest of the morning centered in the drawing for positions. Cornell's crew got first choice and was given the outside course nearest the channel of the river, a course which Ward of Pennsylvania says has distinct advantage in an ebb tide. Wisconsin got the inside course, which has usually been so disastrous to Pennsylvania and which is so near the bank that there is sometimes a back swell. Pennsylvania got the course next to Wisconsin and Columbia next to Cornell. The courses number from the shore, the inside crew being 325 feet from the shore. Numbering in that way to the east the crews drew as follows: No. 1, Wis-east the crews drew as follows: No. 1, Wisconsin, No. 2, Pennsylvania; No. 3, Columbia: No. 4, Cornell.

The positions held for the races of both days. The four-oared crews of Pennsylvania and Cornell will row with Pennsylvania nearest the west shore and Cornell in the channel. There is little advantage in this because both crews will get the benefit of the tide. In the three-cornered race today Pennsylvania will be nearest the west shore in the slack water with Columbia next to them and Cornell again on the outside. It is a curious fact that Cornell has always had the luck to draw the outside course, upon which they have invariably won. outside course, upon which they have in-variably won.

Coach McConville took his bad luck in

Coach McConville took his bad luck in getting the inside course quite philosophically, saying: "Well, we will do out best wherever we are, and I hope there is not much difference."

The drawings were followed by discussion over the tide and the benefit the outside crew would get if the race was rowed at the hour set. The committee decided so as to avoid all controversy that the races should all be postponed for one hour, the four-oared taking place at 5 o'clock this afternoon, the freshmen at 6 o'clock this evening and the 'varsity at 6 o'clock tovening and the 'varsity at 6 o'clock tonorrow. The crews have devoted every minute of The crews have devoted every minute of their time to the work in hand. There are no suggestions of staleness, or of not enough nerve, and each coacher claims that his men are all in the best condition. Of the crews as units, the heaviest is the Columbia 'varsity, which averages about 163 pounds, with an average height of 5 feet 114 inches, as in comparison with the crew of Wisconsin, which, for its average height of 6 feet and 1 inch, has but an average weight of 162 pounds. The men have been under the personal direction of their coaches for weeks, and their frankness in claiming exemptions from such training claiming exemptions from such training diseases as have heretofore formed excuses for losing crews is refreshing.

The Coaches.

Charles Courtney, who for years has rained Cornell for their great series of victories, is in charge of the Cornell crew this year. Dr. Peet, an old rowing and athletic enthusiast, is in charge of Columbia, and has had to change the men's methods much that he has had a very hard task. Ellis Ward is the Pennsylvania coath. He has in the past three years brought his men up to a wonderful standard. In two races in which Pennsylvania has seemed to have a good chance for winning, she has swampa good chance for winning, she has swamped on this course with no apparent good reason for it except splashing of the oars.

The coach of Wisconsin 's a mere boy, C. C. McConville, who only a few years ago stroked a crew which beat the Yale freshmen. He was a pupil of Andrew O'Dea.

The freshmen crews of Pennsylyania, Cornell and Columbia are in good condition, and the two-mile race will be done in fast time. This is always an exciting race, because its brevity gives a chance for a display of dash and spurt rowing not possible in the long four-mile race of the senior eights.

The Four-Mile Course.

The Poughkeepsie 'varsity course of four miles runs along the west side of the river in the shadow of the high bills, and begins at a point three miles above the Poughkeepsie bridge, finishing a mile below. It is as straight as a tightly drawn line could be, and the current of the river affects it but little, if the race is not rowed at a time when the up-tide makes a swirl in the shal-low water. The miles are marked with big round white disks, and the entire race is round white disks, and the entire race is visible from an observation train which runs on the west side of the river. The two-mile course for the four-oared and freshmen eight is rowed from the two-mile point of the course to the finish.

The four-mile stretch of water which has come to be known as the Poughkeepsie course has been the scene of the most important college boat races that have been rowed within the past four years, or since 1895, when the course was first crought to public notice through its selection for the triangular race between Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania Universities.

The course holds the world's record for four miles, it having been established by Cornell in 1896, when the Ithacans traveled the four miles in 19 minutes 29 seconds.

In Former Years.

The race of 1895 was won by Columbia, who finished five lengths ahead of Cornell, Pennsylvania having foundered just after passing under the blg bridge. The official time was 20 minutes 20 seconds. Cornell was represented in this race by her second was represented in this race by her second 'varsity, the first 'varsity being in England at the time with Coach Courtney. There was no freshmen race on this course in '95. The following year Harvard, having broken from Yale and made an agreement with Cornell for two years, the Poughkeepsie course was the scene of a four-crew 'varsity race between Cornell, Harvard, Columbia and Pennsylvania, and also a freshmen race between the same colleges. The freshmen race was rowed June 24, and the freshmen race was rowed June 24, and the crews finished in the following order: Cor-nell, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia; the time for the two miles being 10 minutes

18 seconds. It was the 'varsity race of that year that stablished the present world's record. The best previous time, made at New London was 20 minutes 21 seconds, and Cornell and Harvard both beat this record. Cornell was first in 19 minutes 29 seconds; Harvard second, in 19 minutes 32 seconds; Pennsyl-vania third. Columbia fourth seconds, in 19 minutes 32 seconds; Pennsylvania third, Columbia fourth.

The year 1897 was the banner year of rowing on the Hüdson at Poughkeepsie, as it brought together in two distinct combinations the crack oarsmen of Cornell, Yale, Harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia, June 23 the Freshmen of Cornell Vale and Harvard.

Rain prevented the Senators and Colonels playing ball Saturday, but the two teams came together in Louisville yesterday, and the meeting was most disastrous to our representatives, both contests being won by the Kentuckians, the first by the score of 8 to 1 and the second by the score of 7 to 5. Bert Cunningham was on the rubber for Louisville in the first game, and he simply toyed with the Senators, but three safe hits being made off of his delivery, and two of these went to the credit of Left-fielder O'Brien. Gus Weyhing opposed him, and his delivery was found easy of solution, the ball being batted very hard throughout the game, doubles, triples and a home run playing important parts in the score. Weyhing's support was much better than Cunninghams, but one error being charged against the Washingtons, while three mis-plays were made by the Colonels.

The Senators' only run was chased across the plate in the seventh inning. O'Brien hit safely and reached second on Leach's error of Atherton's infield hit. Bonner's sacrifications sent the runners up a base, and Freeman's hit scored O'Brien. This was the only time the Senators coupled up more than one hit in an inning, it being a one-two-three and out walk to the plate in their other turns at the bat. The fielding of O'Brien and Slagle was the sensation of the first game. Following is the score of the first game. Following is the score of the first game:

The Second Game.

The Senators opened up the second game as if they intended to win right off the reel, but a terrible slump in fielding, in the eighth inning, allowed the Colonels to chalk up their second victory of the day Phillippi began the twirling for the Louisvilles, but after three innings' work, during which time four runs had been scored, he was recalled to the bench and a young player named Brashear, recently secured from the Cedar Rapids club, relieved him and pitched phenomenal ball, but two hits being made by the Senators in the last six innings. McFarland was on the rubber for the Washingtons, and another defeat goes up against his record, although he is reperted to have twirled a good game.

Everything looked lovely for the Senators until the eighth inning was reached, and when the Coionels had concluded their turn at the bat in this inning dire and dismal defeat confronted the boys from Washington. Five runs were chased across the plate by the Kentuckians as a result of a passed ball and a wild throw by Catener Butler, and Padden's error. Coupled up with this weird work were two or three doubles and singles, and, of course the scaring was singles, and, of course, the scoring was easy.

Decker was too ill to play, and Barry took his place on first, the latter fielding well, but being weak at the bat. Jim McGuire is also too ill to work, and Butler is making poor endeavors to fill his place. About 8,000 spectators with seed the two games. Following is the score of the second game:

Cincinnati Won Two.

The Cincinnati and Baltimore clubs played two games yesterday in the former city, and the Reds chalked up two victories, the first by the score of 6 to 1 and the second, after twelve innings play, by the score of 4 to 3. Breitenstein was in harvard, Pennsylvania and Columbia. June 23 the Freshmen of Cornell, Yale and Harvard met in the usual two-mile contest, and this race established another world's record, Yale winning the race in 9 minutes 19½ seconds. The previous record had been 9 minutes 41 seconds, made by Columbia on the Thames, June 24, 1891, and all three crews beat this time. June 24 the Cornell 'varsity beat Yale in 29 minutes 34 seconds, with Harvard bringing up the rear. The following week, on July 1 and 2, respectively, the freshmen and 'varsity races of Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania were held. Cornell won the freshmen contest in 9 minutes 21 1-5 seconds, and in the 'varsity race the Ithacans had almost a walk-over, finishing ten lengths ahead of Columbia, with Pennsylvania swamped on the third mile. The time was 20 minutes 47½ seconds. Last year there was no racing on the	the score of 4 to 3. Breitenstein was in fine form in the first game and allowed the Orioles but four hits. In the second game Hahn twirled effectively in tight places, while Nops had to be relieved by Kitson. Scores: FIRST GAME. Cineinnati. R. H. O. A.E. Baltimore. R. H. O. A.E. WAS A DECIDED SUCCESS.

The Tennis Tournament on the Y. M.

The tennis tournament that was held the past week on the Y. M. C. A. court was a decided success. There were twelve entries in singles, which necessitated twelve matches to complete the play. Some of the players were very evenly matched and some excellent games resulted. Perhaps the prettiest match of the tournament was between Craighill and Raybold, the latter winning only after the hardest kind of a struggle struggle.

Craighill plays a remarkably strong game, but lacks the head work necessary to win in tournaments. A little more experience will make him an exceedingly strong antagonist, Raybold defeated him by the narrowest kind of a margin only after three hard-fought sets, 6-1, 6-8 and 6-4. This latter player shows great pluck and endurance, as his showing against Gase after three hard-fought sets, 6-1, 6-8 and 6-4. This latter player shows great pluck and endurance, as his showing against Gee in the finals proved, he insisting upon playing the match off Wednesday, although he had already played five sets. He beat Horton and Craighill, two of the strongest players of the association, in the preliminaries, and was expected to put up a game struggle in the finals. He undoubtedly will make a strong bid for honors in the fall tournament.

Horton is another man who is deserving of notice. He plays perhaps the hardest return of any player in the association, but, like several others, lacks the expertence and endurance for a bruising finish.

The star of the tournament was Mr. Gee.
He met and defeated four players with a loss of but three games in nine sets. He does not play any particular stroke, but can be relied upon at all times. He plays equally well at the net and base line, and never loses his head for a moment. Having played in several tournaments, he has some advantage over the other players of some advantage over the other players of the association, and he can be relied upon to make any of the cracks work to defeat him. Mr. Gee was anxious to have the finals postponed in order to give Raybold a chance to recover his strength, but as the latter was determined to play there the latter was determined to play there was nothing left to do. It is hardly thought that the result would have been different, however, as it is believed Mr. Gee would have won by a good margin.

The finals in the doubles were played off
Saturday afternoon, Greene and Weaver contesting against Craighill and Gee. Al-though the former team was clearly out-classed they put up a game struggle and he last set was only won after hard and clean-cut volleying by the close score of 6-4.

The medals will, be presented tonight. Mr. Gee takes two gold medals, one for first prize in singles and one for first in doubles; Mr. Craightil, a gold medal for first in doubles; Mr. Raybold, a silver medal for second prize in singles, and Messrs. Greene and Weaver, each a silver medal for second in doubles.

The mile novice brought out a field of The mile novice brought out a field of sixteen riders, the trials being run in two heats, each one-third of a mile, the final being a full mile. The final was a pretty race, and was won by H. V. Smith.

The one-mile open, amateur, was perhaps the prettiest race on the card, and was won by W. H. Lewis of the Century Cycle Club. There were twelve entries, and the event was run in one heat. At the tape the front river; were well bunched, and not the front river, were well bunched, and not a wheel's length separated the first four

The fifth event, the one-mile handicap, was run in two heats, four men qualifying for the final. In the first heat the scratch nen were unable to catch the lead men, and were not placed. The final was ridden in much faster time than any of the heats. An exhibition quarter mile, the only professional event on the card, was given by A. C. Moran. The exhibition was unpaced, and was covered in 0.251-5. Harry Park, the trick rider, gave an exhibition of fancy and trick riding, which was fully appre-ciatel, concluding by riding the bicycle over a chair.

Only two teams started in the tandem Australies pursuit race, O. H. and F. B. Miller riding one machine and Howard Rhine and C. L. Miller the other. It was a pretty even race and continued for the longest distance of any amateur event of longest distance of any amateur event of the kind held in the city. The Miller broth-ers gained the first lap, and while they held a slight lead clear until the last, the other team frequently cut the distance down.
After riding five and two-thirds miles Rhine and Miller gave up the race, and were passed within thirty feet of the close of the Mr. W. H. Hunter was in charge of the
